PERSONAL DRIVE

I believe efficient utilization of time, through collaboration with peers, is a vital ingredient in preparing learners into excellent and dynamic human resources for personal, national and international growth. I practice Quality Teaching for effective generation and use of knowledge at all levels of teaching and learning. My philosophy stems from the bottom-up approach to learning which recognizes teachers and learners as central to development of curriculum decisions that will determine the progression of learning and consequently, learning outcomes. As a teacher of English, I desire to nurture young children and learners into embracing the love for reading as a critical element of their success in schools.
